DETAILED ACTION

Drawings

1. The drawings are objected to because figures 3A and 3b, which are referred to on page 6 of the specification, are not found within the 6 sheets of drawings submitted. No new matter may be submitted.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

2. Claims 1, 2, 3, 6, 7, 9, 10, 11, 13, 14, 16, 17, 18, 21, 22, 23, 24, 27, 28, 29, 31, 32, 33, 34, 35, and 38 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Bjerrum (5311595). In regards to claims 1, 9, 16, 22, 29 and 33 Bjerrum discloses in column 2, lines 49-56 a method of transferring data between computer systems via the use of portable electronic cards. Bjerrum further discloses in column 21, line 31, that the aforementioned electronic cards contain micro processors which meet the limitations set forth under claims 1, 9, 16, 22, 29 and 33 which call for a portable processor. Bjerrum further discloses the use of a production key in column 22, lines 11-14, which is supplied to the electronic cards and is used to generate keys for use in the encryption and decryption process of the electronic cards as described in column 22 lines 25-32. The production key meets the specified limitations of claims 1, 9, 16, 22, 29, and 33 which call for using a master key.

3. In regards to claims 2, 10, 17, 23, and 34 Bjerrum discloses the use of random numbers in column 23, lines 37-40, which are used by the electronic cards to provide greater security for the generation of keys which are used in the encryption and decryption process. This random number meets the limitations of claims 2, 10, 17, 23, and 34 which calls for the portable processor to use a variable key range variable when generating encryption keys.

4. In regards to claims 6, 13, 21, 27, 31, and 38 Bjerrum discloses the use of smart cards in column 21, line 49, which meet the exact limitations set forth by claims 6, 13, 21, 27, 31, and 38.

5. In regards to claims 7, 14, 28, and 32 Bjerrum discloses in column 21, lines 37-38, that the smart cards are validated through the use of a personal identification number, which meets the exact limitations set forth by claims 7, 14, 28, and 32.

6. In regards to claims 3, 11, 18, 24, and 35, Bjerrum discloses in column 24, lines 31-53, a method of verifying encryption and decryption keys used by the portable processors. Bjerrum further discloses that the portable processors will exchange random numbers between each other in order verify each others encryption and decryption keys. The limitations of claims 3, 11, 18, 24, and 35 are met by the above disclose since the random number (which has been shown to represent the variable key range variable from claims 2, 10, 17, 23, and 34 above) is outputted from one smart card during an encryption process and received in a second smart card during a decryption process.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

7. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

8. Claims 5, 15, and 20 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Bjerrum in view of Dolan (5937068). Bjerrum's design meets all of the aforementioned limitations of claims 2 and 10 described above. However, Bjerrum's design lacks the use of a hashing function for generating encryption keys. Dolan shows this exact limitation in column 8, lines 61-62, where it is stated that a smart card generates a hash value and then calculates a key based on that corresponding hash value. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to substitute Dolan's teachings into Bjerrum's design in order to achieve a design that makes use of a hashing function in order to aid in the generation of encryption and decryption keys.

Conclusion

Art Unit: 2132

9. Claims 4, 8, 12, 19, 25, 26, 30, 36, and 37 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.
